PHYSICIANS HURT IN AUTO WRECK

Dr. W. E. Barnum of Manilla Caught Under Machine When it Turns Over Into Ditch.

SUFFERS TWO BROKEN RIBS

Automobile Which Has Seemed to be Hoodoo to the Owner is Completely Demolished.

After having several almost miraculous escapes in his automobile, Dr. W. E. Barnum of Manilla is at last suffering from severe injuries, which he received when he was thrown into the ditch. The "king bolt" in his automobile broke and the body of the machine was so twisted that it rolled down into the ditch. Dr. Barnum was caught underneath the machine and suffered two broken ribs and other painful injuries.

Just how the accident happened Dr. Barnum does not know for it was done so quickly that the first thing he knew he was trying to crawl out from under the overturned automobile. He was on his way to see a patient just over the line into Shelby county. He had turned a corner near the home of Conrad Gahmer when the accident occurred. When the machine turned over into the ditch he was caught underneath, and although suffering from painful injuries he managed to crawl out. The accident was witnessed by several people and they rushed to the rescue. A telephone message to Manilla brought Emerson Barnum, who attended his father's injuries.

Dr. Barnum was almost unconscious after the accident and for some time was in a dazed condition. However, he was glad to find that his injuries amounted only to some bruises and two broken ribs.

The machine was completely wrecked. All of the wheels were mashed and the front axle was broken. The machine seems to have been a hoodoo to Dr. Barnum for he has been in several accidents in it, but none of them has been as severe as the one in which he suffered Wednesday.

PUMPKIN FACES IN STORE WINDOWS

Merchants of the City Have Attractive Displays in Their Halloween Decorations.

MUCH FAVORABLE COMMENT

The down town district is attractive now. The merchants have their halloween decorations in their windows completed, and most of them are very clever and attractive. Pumpkin faces, fodder and other appropriate decorations for the occasion are well taken care of by different merchants. Many people have passed favorable comments on the energy of the merchants in making their stores attractive and have commented especially on the halloween decorations in the windows.

COMPANY ASKS MORE TIME

Capital Circuit Traction People Not Ready to Begin Work.

The Capital Circuit Traction company asked that the time for the beginning of work as required by the ordinance granted them, be extended to January 1st, 1913. The request was referred to the ordinance committee.—Franklin Star.

This is the same company that has a franchise in this city, says the Shelbyville Republican, but no work on the proposed line, which is to extend from Greenfield, Rushville, to Shelbyville; then Franklin, Danville, Noblesville, connecting at Greenfield, has ever been done in this locality.

PUMPKIN FACES TO GRIN AT YOU

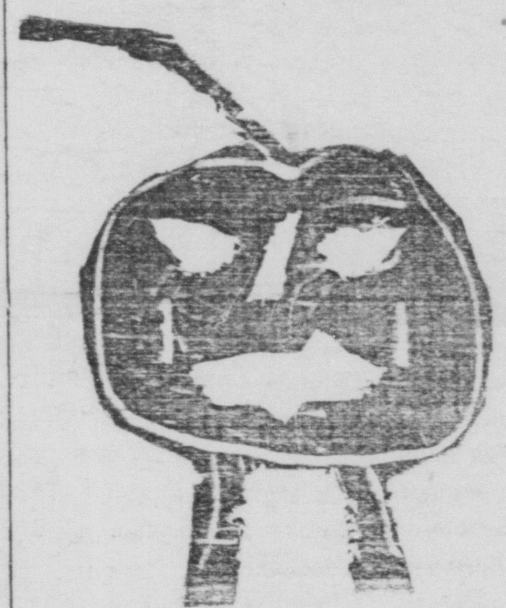

And the Goblins'll Get You if You Don't Watch Out Tonight and Saturday Night.

SOCIAL EVENTS ARRANGED

Old Folks, Young Folks, and Other Folks Are Planning For a Pleasant Halloween.

If you go outside tonight and see a great big hideous pumpkin face grinning at you, run! Run fast! For the goblins will sure get you if you don't watch out.

No this is not halloween—that is officially speaking. But nevertheless a number of halloween parties have been planned for this evening. And a lot of other things have been planned which are not parties. This is Friday night—all night and the kids won't have any studying to do. (They haven't been losing any sleep for that reason, however.) From the number of false faces bought in the last week it is probably there will be a lot of hideous beings on the street tonight and tomorrow night—and maybe Sunday and Monday night.

Of course, the old time idea that destroying property is fun has been relegated—in this city at least. And old folks and young folks and other folks will just go out to see how much innocent fun they can have. If the boy tries to scare you—get scared. You remember when you were a kid how much it pleased you when somebody acted scared. So remember the boys and the girls tonight and tomorrow night.

A number of society events have been arranged for tonight and tomorrow night.

The women of the Milroy M. E. church will give a halloween entertainment Saturday evening in the Modern Woodmen hall at Milroy.

Misses Edith Buell and Grace Mauzy will entertain a number of friends with a halloween party at the home of Miss Buell, east of the city tomorrow evening. Several entertaining and novel features have been planned for the party.

The Glenwood school is planning for a big time tomorrow night. The halloween social will be given in the old U. P. church, and it will be a

COLD WEATHER COMING

Flock of Wild Geese Passed Over This Morning.

It is an old, old saying that cold weather is coming when the wild geese begin to go south. If there is any truth in the old adage, cold weather is coming because a large flock of wild geese passed over this city this morning about nine o'clock in their quest for warmer climate.

masquerade. Prizes will be given to the most artistic and the most ridiculous make-up. Refreshments will be served and good music will be furnished.

The boys of the Kappa Alpha Phi fraternity will entertain the girls with a halloween party at the home of Walter Capp, south of the city this evening. The crowd will be taken out on a hay wagon. Many grotesque and unique games have been planned for the occasion.

A mask halloween party was given last night by Mr. and Mrs. Major Griffin at their home east of this city. The guests all went masked and there were about seventy-five present. An orchestra furnished music and the evening was spent in dancing. Refreshments of pumpkin pie, ginger cakes, cider and coffee were served. Mr. and Mrs. George Schrader of this city were among the guests.

Republicans' Work In Plain Figures

It Shows Management Worthy of Recognition

The people are entitled to know just how much money has been collected by our city authorities, and just where it has been used. Here it is for all the time Mr. Cowing has been mayor:

Receipts for 1907	$45,000.00
Receipts for 1908	45,000.00
Receipts for 1909	45,000.00
Receipts from Sept. 1, '06, when Cowing came in to Jan. 1, '07	17,400.00
Total receipts	$152,400.00

And here is the way in which it has been spent:

Water and light improvements	$30,028.49
Ground and coal bins	700.00
Difference between gas and coal	4,000.00
Extension of water mains	3,100.00
Switch made necessary by use of coal	600.00
Increase in wages of all employes	2,000.00
City's part of sewerage system	1,500.00
Fire department	1,900.00
Storm sewers	1,300.00
Street repairs, including brick crossings	24,500.00
Small pox	7,000.00
Payment on principal and interest of debt	25,372.37
Gas for 3 years before use of coal	18,900.00
Salaries for all city officers	31,141.27
Total	$152,042.13

Can anybody possibly find any objection to this expenditure?

It is remarkable what has been done by way of rejuvenating our demoralized water and light system under the management of Superintendent Mahin, than whom no better man can possibly be found; and it is all the more remarkable when we think that, while it has been going on, the tax levy has been reduced every year. That is the kind of management that is worthy of recognition.

DR. BOND NAMED AS PRESIDENT

Richmond Man is the New Head of the Union District Medical Society.

NEXT MEETING AT HAMILTON

Session Here Yesterday Profitable—Good Papers Bring Out Much Interesting Discussion.

Dr. Charles S. Bond of Richmond was elected president of the Union District Medical Society at the meeting held at the court house here yesterday. Dr. P. M. Sater of Hamilton, Ohio, was re-elected secretary. The retiring president of the society is Dr. F. T. DuBois of Liberty. The next meeting will be held in Hamilton on the third Thursday in April.

The meeting yesterday was one of the most interesting sessions held by the society in a long time. The papers were all good and the discussions which followed the reading of the papers brought out some good discussion. These meetings are proving more profitable each time, and the physicians in this territory make every effort to be present. The attendance yesterday was up to the average for a meeting in this city. This is always one of the large meetings because of the fact that Rushville is of easy access to the physicians who are members of the society.

Already big plans are being made for the meeting in the spring at Hamilton, for this is the largest meeting in the district. A larger attendance is always expected at Hamilton than at any other place of meeting because of the large number of physicians in Hamilton, and the fact that many Cincinnati doctors come up there for the meetings. In case the president is absent the president of the local society presides at the meeting.

High School Football Team Had Two Games For Tomorrow, But Both Were Canceled.

PLAY KIRLIN THANKSGIVING

The members of the high school football team will have to be content with a short practice tomorrow for it seems that luck is against them. They first had a contest with the high school eleven from Greenfield to be played here and they canceled. Then the manager obtained a game with the second team from Miami University to be played here. But they too, canceled and the result is no game.

But the team has one thing to look forward to, and that is the game with the Kirlin high school team here Thanksgiving day. Kirlin has a strong team as they won the State championship last year.

Lesson V.—Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 31, 1909.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xxvii, 13-26. Memory Verses, 22-24—Golden Text, Ps. xxxvii, 5—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

As we hear Agrippa say privately to Festus, "This man might have been set at liberty if he had not appealed unto Caesar" (xxvi, 31), we are tempted to feel a pang of regret that Paul had thus appealed, but when we remember that his liberty would probably have meant his death because of the Jews, who were watching their opportunity to kill him, we are glad that his life is still protected. Paul and other prisoners were committed to the care of Julius, a Roman centurion, and set sail for Italy. Aristarchus of Macedonia (xix, 29) being one of the company. We have no account of farewells, as at other places, though we cannot imagine that such were lacking, but we have quite a detailed account of the voyage. We note, with gratitude to God, the centurion's courteous treatment of Paul and that when they touched at Sidon he was allowed to go unto his friends to refresh himself (verse 2). We cannot but hope that this centurion ere he parted company with Paul had received Jesus as the Christ and thus become an heir of the inheritance and a joint heir with Christ Himself.

After sailing by Crete they met the storm, as Paul had feared, and for two weeks they were exceedingly tossed by the tempest, saw neither sun nor stars in many days, and all hope that they should be saved was taken away. A glance at the map will show that they had completed about half the voyage from Syria to Italy before they ran into this storm. I remember thinking much about it as one beautiful day in the fall of 1897 we sailed across from Port Said, in Egypt, to Brindisi, in Italy, and we passed close by Crete. I can never forget that most refreshing sail across the Mediterranean after the heat of China and India and tropical seas and, last of all, the blue Red sea, which, the captain said, may have been called red because it was so often red hot. We met no euroclydon, and, though I have been in some storms, yet never have I known anything like this that Paul passed through. Thank God for all who know in storm and fair weather the refuge and rest there are in the Lord Himself and in the consciousness of His presence and care. He is indeed our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble, a refuge from the storm (Ps. xlv, 1; Isa. xxv, 4). He was watching over his servant in all this storm and probably comforted him with the assurance, "The Lord on high is mightier than the noise of many waters—yea, than the mighty waves of the sea" (Ps. xlii, 4). No doubt the assurance in chapter xxiii, 1, "Thou must bear witness also at Rome," rested Paul and made him believe that there was some way out of this, although the others had given up all hope. Well, there came a day when Paul stood forth in the midst of them and, with a word about the mistake they had made in loosing from Crete, told them how a messenger from God had come to him the night before and had assured him that, while the ship would be lost by being wrecked upon some island, there would be no loss of any man's life, and he added in the words of the proverbial saying, "There shall not an hair fall from the head of any of you." Compare I Sam. xiv, 45; Luke xii, 7; xxi, 18. He exhorted them to "be of good cheer" (22, 25, 36), and he was successful, for as he took bread and gave thanks to God in the presence of them all and began to eat they also ate enough to strengthen them and were all of good cheer.

Thus one man helped 275 others by his confidence in God (verses 34-37). What a beautiful illustration of "In quietness and in confidence shall be your strength" (Isa. xxx, 15). They were of good cheer not because the storm had ceased, but because they had words from heaven on which to rest. No words of earth or of man's wisdom can give rest in time of real trouble, but we can rest quietly and unwaveringly on the words of Him who died for us and rose again and who has all power in heaven and on earth. Whether this was another appearance of the Lord Jesus Himself, as on three previous occasions (ix, 17; xviii, 9; xxiii, 11), or a messenger such as Gabriel, it was certainly a message straight from heaven reminding Paul that he must be brought before Caesar and that he must not be afraid (verse 24). Then there was added, "And, lo, God hath given thee all them that sail with thee."

How grand are Paul's words concerning his relationship to the Lord. "Whose I am and whom I serve" (23) the property of no earthly master, under no man's thumb, however great, but able to say with Elijah and Elisha, "The Lord of Hosts liveth, before whom I stand." We know that one of his great principles was "not as pleasing men, but God, who trieth our hearts" (I Thess. ii, 4). Then his words of simple confidence in God, "I believe God, that it shall be even as it was told me" (25)—what a motto for a lifetime! Let us say it concerning every promise and prediction in all the book; let us be fully persuaded that what God has promised He will perform (Rom. iv, 21), and let us see "Jesus only."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 31, 1909.

Topic.—Heroes of missions in the islands.—Isa. xxxii, 1-4; 16-20.

The striking mission verse of these paragraphs is, "Blessed are ye that sow by all waters, that send forth thither the feet of the ox and ass" (Isa. xxxii, 20). Palestine had its dry and wet seasons. In the dry season the soil of the banks and nearby land became baked and hard from the sun.

cerned this hardened land was broken up by "the feet of the ox and the ass." Seed was scattered, and when the torrents came and the streams overflowed their banks the seed sank into the softened soil and brought forth fruit. But the prophet here praises breadth of sowing—"beside all waters." The reason is clear. If the sowing were limited in extent the place selected might for some reason be unfruitful. But if it were sowed along all banks and streams it could not all be unproductive; hence he would be blessed or happy who "sowed beside all waters," for he would be assured of a crop somewhere. If not at one place, then at another. The same principle applies to the sowing of spiritual seed—the word of God.

It must be sowed everywhere, beside all waters, for we know not where it will produce results and where it will not. God alone knows this, and He assures us that our sowing will not be in vain. Some seed may fall on the beaten path, some among thorns, some on the rocks, but some in a worldwide scattering will fall upon good ground and bring forth good fruit.

If we sow beside all waters the islands cannot be neglected, for they are entirely surrounded by water. Moreover, they have had special need of the gospel. Living almost alone in scattered parts of the great deep, islanders have usually sunk to the lowest depths of moral and spiritual degradation. The lowest forms of civilization and of religion have existed among them. Cannibalism has widely prevailed. Vessels from other parts of the world have been wrecked, and those aboard have been cruelly mistreated and murdered. Such being the state of affairs, they who have carried the gospel to many islands have been heroes indeed. All may be called "heroes of missions." Many of them have faced death frequently, and many today wear the crown of martyrdom. John Williams was a heroic island missionary as well as the pioneer in the work. In 1816 he went to the Society Islands and later, while trying to sow the gospel seed in the New Hebrides, was murdered by the natives, who mistook him for a cruel trader. Patterson, the Bishop of Melanesia, was put to death by the natives.

John G. Paton passed through untold horrors in the New Hebrides and more than once stood face to face with death. Lyman and Munson in 1834 went to the East Indies and were almost immediately murdered by the inhabitants of Sumatra. Robert Chalmers labored in New Guinea for years in constant danger from cannibals and poisoners. At last he was murdered by a tribe on his first visit to them with the gospel. These are only a few names of the long roll of heroes of missions to islands. Yet their endurance of perils and death should lead us to reconsecrate ourselves to the cause of missions by all waters.

The heroism of these and other brave men has been wonderfully successful. They died, but the seed they planted lived and produced abundant results. Paul's first missionary fruits were among the islanders of Cyprus. England was transformed from barbarism by the gospel. Paton in his long life of service in the New Hebrides did great things for God and his benighted island people. The conversion of the islands of New Zealand, Madagascar, the south sea islands and Hawaii illustrates the miracles of modern missions. In the least expected places God has wrought His most wonderful works. What an encouragement this should be to missionaries and their supporters!

Local Churches Sunday School Lesson Christian Endeavor

said: "The future of the great Christian Endeavor movement is in God's hands, as all the glorious past has been. We believe in it and pledge ourselves to its advancement. We seek the sympathetic co-operation of every pastor and Christian worker, that its faults may be minimized, its virtues magnified and its possibilities realized, so that all the youth of our churches shall be in training for the King's business, in order that His kingdom may come and His will be done in earth as it is in heaven."

Two Nuggets.
The Christian Endeavor society is the training school of the church as the Sunday school is the teaching school of the church.—Dr. F. E. Clark.
Christian Endeavor seeks simply to assist the church in the doing of the church's work, and all the training for service means training for the service of Christ through the church.—Rev. John Pollock.

In Training.
Christian Endeavor is training young people to use their money for church work. One society has recently invested in a printing press and will do the church advertising; another has bought a stereopticon, which the pastor will use in his Sunday evening services.

CURES REMOVE DOUBT ABOUT ECZEMA CURE

Read What Your Druggist Says About Oil of Wintergreen.

Druggist Thos. W. Lytle submits the following to the readers of the Daily Republican:

For several years we have announced, with our recommendation, that we had found a positive cure for eczema; a simple skin wash, oil of wintergreen compounded with other healing ingredients.

Yet we know there are people right in this town who have eczema, and still have tried this remedy.

We have therefore arranged with the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago for a special offer of a trial bottle at 25 cents instead of the $1.00 bottle as regularly sold.

We offer this trial bottle with our recommendation and assurance that just as soon as the patient washes his itching skin, this mild liquid will take the itch away instantly.

For sale by Lytle's Drug Store.

Bees Laxative Cough Syrup is so highly recommended, because it not only moves the bowels gently and thereby stops the cold, but it also allays inflammation of the lungs and throat. It is pleasant to take. Sold by Lytle's Drug Store.

SOCIETY NEWS

A very pretty and impressive autumn wedding was solemnized last Wednesday evening, Oct. 20, 1909 at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Gray. The bride being their only daughter, Miss Clara J. Gray and the bridegroom Mr. Leslie Hinchman of Union township, both are good and highly respected young people. The entire decorations for the house were light blue and white the favorite colors of the bride. The parlor being chosen for the ceremony room, the bridal couple standing under an arch of lace and white bells entwined with light blue and green smilax vines.

The bride wore a white frock lawn trimmed in irish lace an embroidery, and carried an arm bouquet of white roses. Miss Hazel and Willie Hinchman furnished nice music and played the wedding march for the entrance of the wedding party. After the congratulations were extended the wedding party went to the decorated dining room, where an elegant supper was served to all. There were two long tables, one was the brides table trimmed in white roses and smilax with a large bride's cake in the center, while the other table was trimmed in cornations and smilax. The place cards were hearts with the name of the bride and groom, with blue and white ribbon and silver bells only near relatives and a few friends were present, but all enjoyed the evening and departed, wishing the happy couple a long and happy life together. They received many nice and valuable presents. They will make their home with his father for awhile.

We, the undersigned candidates for Mayor and Councilmen on the Republican ticket do hereby make the following statement regarding the Gas Franchise in Our City.

It is not now and never has been an issue with us as a party. We hereby pledge ourselves not to tamper with the present Franchise in force between the Gas Companies and the City and are opposed to any increase in the cost of gas. And we hereby pledge ourselves to maintain the existing rates.

When the present Mayor and present city council came into office, the tax levy was a dollar and twenty cents on every hundred dollars of valuation, and this for city purposes. Notwithstanding the increased efficiency of every arm of the service, that levy has been decreased five cents a year until now it stands at an even dollar. There is a great deal in knowing how.

John M. Stevens, Republican candidate for mayor, emphatically denies that he will leave Rushville whether he is elected Mayor or not. Of course the story is so ridiculous that it really calls for no denial, for why should he make the race for Mayor and at once resign? What earthly advantage would that be to him? What purpose could possibly drive him to such action? A mere statement of the proposition is sufficient to destroy it.

Our Democratic friends have again sprung the old and time-worn gas question on us. It is like a voice from the grave, for the Republican party settled that question eight years ago and there it will remain. It is not an issue and has not been an issue, and will not be an issue and they can't make it an issue.

Four years ago Mr. Cowing and all the Republican candidates for council signed a statement, which was published in the Republican at the time, stating that, if elected, they would not disturb the then existing gas rates. They were elected and they have not disturbed the gas rates.

The present Republican candidates for Mayor and council have signed exactly such a statement, and, if elected, they will not change the existing gas rates. That settles it, and our friends will have to hustle around and resurrect some other forgotten skeleton with which to terrify the voter.

Interesting Side of Life

USES STRONG BRAND.

Who ever heard of anyone eating soda? Just plain soda, the kind that the housewife uses in cooking. But it is a fact anyway that a certain woman in the city does eat it like an ordinary person would eat meat for dinner. She says it is good and she really believes that it is, too. She is a washwoman and she can hardly do a washing without two or three swigs of the package. When she is washing at home she generally calls for the soda bag several times and says that she must have her soda or she can not do her washing. And she is an awfully good washwoman and as strong as an ox. But the best part of the story is that she uses the Arm and Hammer brand.

WHAT WON'T ELECTRICITY DO.

What will electricity do next is what the provincial gentleman would like to know. Well here is one thing it has done which is not recounted among the list of fatalities. Demmer brothers have an electric cigar lighter in their store. It is an innovation in this and has attracted much attention. It hangs from the ceiling on an electric wire and resembles very much the mouth-piece of a telephone. The apparatus where the contact is made with the cigar and the light is made looks just like a telephone and the handle on it looks just like it was there for no other purpose than to pick the thing up with and talk. Anything which is warm enough to light a cigar would naturally be very warm. Someone happened in the store the other day and his first impression was that it was a private telephone. Picking the thing up he put it up to his mouth and began to talk. But he did not keep it there long because his lips were burned in less time than that and he is now a hater of all modern inventions.

Halloween In Ireland

With a Fiddler and a Fire,
Night is Spent in Feasting

One of the many festivities which we have among the remote hills of Ireland Hallow-eve is looked forward to with most pleasurable anticipation by the light-hearted youth, says Seumas McManus in the Delin-eator for November. On that night the young people will indulge in their merriest pranks and their greatest tricks and most fascinating magical mysteries, and, not least, they will enjoy not merely apples and nuts, but the rarest dishes in all of the twelve months.

Like Christmas, Hallow-eve is a home time for our people. The mountain kitchen, in which the family and friends of the family are going to spend Hallow-eve, in all probability, occupies the whole width of the house and half the length of it. There is a great open hearth from which the high-piled turf and bog fire sends up dancing flames with the winsomest, dancing, yellow light, which makes shadows leap and bound like ghosts on the walls and along the bared rafters overhead, and glimmers and shimmers on the patterned delft which, crowded in close rows, adorns the sandwhited dresser.

There are sand-whited chairs of old-fashioned country pattern, and short forms, and three-legged stools, and stool yeapt "creepy," in plenty. Emergency seats are to be had by pressing into service the side of the "outshot" bed in the kitchen corner, and the half-emptied bags of meal that sit by the wall-side down the floor, and the vagabonds of the company would strive among themselves for these privileged bed seats—that particular position being the unalienable privilege of the aforementioned vagabonds of the countryside, because, having all the rest of the gathering before them and under them, they can rake the company with arrows of sarcasm the night long. A local fiddler, with whom the family is a favorite, honors the household, maybe, with his presence that night, or else a wandering piper, who always finds his home within the first house he meets after nightfalls. The fiddler or the piper, as the case may be, has the seat of honor in the chimney corner—for in our mountain the musician is prince.

Will Protect Both Hunters and Farmers

Forestry Board and Game Wardens Prepare For Open Season

The killing frosts and the carpeting of the fields and woods with deadened grass and fallen leaves have been a signal for increased activity in the office of the State fish and game commissioner and in that of the secretary of the State board of forestry. Both are preparing for the annual oncoming of the hunter, but with widely varying purposes—the former to see that the hunter's greed does not overcome the sportsman's honors, while the latter is preparing to protect the owner of the woods against the sportsman's carelessness. The forces in the two offices are combining their efforts along these two lines, and the hunter who carelessly sets fire to a heap of dried and fallen leaves, to let the blaze spread through acres of forest, is as certain to feel the grasp of the law as is one who forgets that fifteen quails are as many as he is allowed to bag in any one day.

In preparation for his part, Charles C. Dean, secretary of the State board of forestry, has called attention to the farmers and hunters through the newspapers of the State to the loss by forest fires during the last year and the necessity of carefully guarding against conflagrations, especially during the hunting season. In addition, he has caused to be printed on muslin copies of the law against setting fire to forests or fields, and these will be posted in conspicuous places throughout the State. A fine of from $5 to $50 may be assessed against any person found guilty of wantonly causing a forest fire.

The indications are that when the season for rabbits and quails opens November 10, the farmers and keepers of game preserves for private shooting will see a great influx of gun bearers arriving by trolley or automobile, to say nothing of the sportsmen who do not give so much attention to dress and who usually show up on foot.

By an enactment of the general assembly, rabbits are protected from October 1 to November 10, not so much for the rabbits as to protect the young quails, the legislators evidently knowing how difficult it is for a rabbit hunter in the crisp October air to refrain from taking a shot at a youthful Bob White sailing across the stubble field, and running his chances of being invited to the office of a justice of the peace by a game warden. Consequently they arranged to keep the hunters out of the field until the regular date for opening the quail season. The experience of the law works admirably, both as a protection to the law-abiding sportsman and for the birds.

Fifteen quails are allowed any one gunner. The Hungarian quails, which are mostly on the game preserves where they have not wandered to adjoining fields, can not be killed for another six years. The hunter can not sell or give away any game, hence if any one receives a promise of a quail dinner from an enthusiastic hunter, he might as well prepare to have the promise broken, to receive the game surreptitiously, or to entertain the hunter at the dinner at which the birds are served.

E. E. Earl, deputy fish and game commissioner, relative to an effective policing of the State during the quail season. Additional wardens are to be employed and the State thoroughly patrolled in the interests of the sportsman who has proper regard for the State game laws.

PASTER BALLOTS.

(New Castle Times.)

If the voters of Lewisville want to cast their votes for the candidates for trustee, clerk, treasurer and marshal, as named on the People's ticket, they will have to use paster ballots and paste the names of the men in the place of those who are printed on the ballot for the various offices under the head of the Citizens' ticket.

Such a necessity in voting was created when Judge Jackson in the circuit court sustained a demurrer which had been filed by attorneys for the election commissioners in the mandamus proceedings instituted on Tuesday on the relation of Samuel Kirkham against the election commissioners—Oran J. Richardson, Frank Watson and Albert R. McIlvaine.

The suit was brought by Kirkham to compel the election commissioners to place the People's ticket on the ballot. It was contended by the commissioners that they had not the right to do so, as the petition to do this was filed with the town trustees instead of the election commissioners, as provided by law. To the complaint the election commissioners filed a demurrer.

As matters now stand, the election commissioners are not compelled to print the People's ticket on the ballot and will not do so. If the voters want to vote for the men were named on it they will have to use paster ballots and paste them over the names of the same offices named in the Citizen's ticket. And it is understood that pasters are to be used at Tuesday's election.

EXTENSION OF I. & C. TO EAST

One of Hopes of Trustees Who Are Planning For a Reorganization of the Company.

HENRY MUST MAKE A REPORT

By April 1 of Progress Made Toward the Reorganization—Letters Sent Out by Durbin.

Considerable local interest has been aroused by letters that have been sent out by Winfield T. Durbin as chairman of a board of trustees representing stock and bond holders of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company to holders of I. & C. receiver's certificates, concerning a plan of reorganization which is to be presented soon, says the Indianapolis Star.

The plan as divulged in the letters which have been sent to many Indianapolis people, would have one of its ends the extension of the traction line from Connersville to Hamilton, Ohio, and it would be the purpose of the trustees to take care of the certificate holders, who really have a first claim on the property now, and at the same time to save as much as possible for the stock and bond holders.

The letter explains that all but one of the trustees named hold certificates as well as stock or bonds and that their action in relation to a plan for re-organization will be in the interest of all concerned and would not in any way be detrimental to the interests of the holders of receiver's certificates.

It is explained that the plan will go forward with all possible haste for the receiver. Charles L. Henry, who is also president and general manager of the road, is to report back to Judge Carter of the superior court what progress he has made toward re-organization by April 1, 1910. It is the hope of the trustees to accomplish a reorganization by that time. In the meantime it is the hope, the letter says, that nothing will "disturb the waters."

The letter names the other trustees in addition to Mr. Durbin as John J. Appel, of Gregory & Appel, a member of the Board of Park Commissioners and identified with other traction interests; Theodore F. Rose, president of the Union National Bank of Muncie; George A. Ball, of Ball Bros.' Glass Manufacturing Co., Muncie, and Claude Cambern, an attorney of Rushville. The letter explains that in addition to being holders of both the original securities and the receiver's certificates of the company, these men feel their obligation to others interested in the ultimate success of a desirable plan for reorganization.

The Kramer rink will be open tonight, Saturday afternoon and Saturday night.

Local baseball fans will have an opportunity to see Ownie Bush in action tonight. The film is said to be very plain and shows the work of the athletes in a great shape. The song will be "On a Monkey Honeymoon."

Large crowds attended the Vaudet last night and were pleased with the performances. "Billy" Thomas, "The King of Paper Tearers" was there with the goods and he handed out a classy line of talk along with his music and paper-tearing. Tonight the moving pictures, "The Treacherous Policeman" and "The Bachelor's Misfortune" will be presented in addition to an entire change of program by "Billy" Thomas. Don Rogers will sing a new illustrated song from the balcony over the stage.

The Star-Grand offers another Biograph subject tonight entitled "The Little Teacher," which is a comedy of rustic school days. The subject is one of dainty, rustic simplicity and is bound to please all, particularly the ladies and children. Hufferd will sing a beautiful solo entitled "The Organ and the Choir," in which the chimes will be used. LOOK

Look at your collars and cuffs and then look at your friends. See what a difference. Are your collars, cuffs and shirt bosoms YELLOW, HARD and SHINE like a piece of celluloid? To get this shine it requires your collars, cuffs and shirt bosoms to be passed under an intense hot roll a dozen or more times. In fact the life of the linen is killed. We finish your collars and cuffs by hand, with our up-to-date methods. We return your collars, cuffs and shirts to you clean and white, and that pliable feeling to them, that will lengthen the life of your linen.

"Oh, she's no fool, I suppose. And now she's going to Europe! Some manager has the idea in his head that there is money to be made in Italy and Germany during the spring and summer. American comic opera in those countries—can you imagine it? He has an angel, and I suppose money is no object."

"This angel, then, has cut out a fine time for his bank account, and he'll never get back to heaven once he gets tangled up in foreign red tape. Every large city in Italy and Germany has practically its own opera troupe. Poor angel! Tell your Kitty to strike for a return ticket to America before she leaves."

"You think it's as bad as that?"

"Look on me as a prophet of evil, if you like, but truthful."

"I'll see that Kitty gets her ticket." Merrihew snapped the case of his watch and drew his legs from under the table. "I lost a hundred last night too."

"After that I suppose nothing worse can happen," said Hillard cheerily. "You will play, for all my advice."

"It's better to give than receive—that," replied Merrihew philosophically. "I've a good mind to follow the company. I've always had a banker's heart to beat it up at Monte Carlo. A last throw, eh? Win or lose and quit, I might win."

"And then again you mightn't. But the next time I go to Italy I want you to go with me. You're good company, and for the pleasure of listening to your jokes I'll gladly foot the bills, and you may gamble your letter of credit to your heart's content. I must be off. Who is riding the Sandford's black?"

"Haven't noticed. What do you think of Kitty?"

"Charming."

"And the photo isn't a marker."

"Possibly not."

"Lord, if I could only hibernate for three months like a bear! My capital might then readjust itself if left alone that length of time."

"See you at the club tonight," laughed Hillard.

They nodded pleasantly and took their separate ways. Merrihew stood very high in Hillard's regard. He was a lovable fellow, and there was something kindred in his soul and Hillard's, possibly the spirit of romance. What drew them together perhaps more than anything else was their mutual love of outdoor pleasures. Take two men and put them on good horses, send them forth into the wilds to face all inconveniences, and if they are not fast friends at the end of the journey they never will be.

was a bit of the gamester in Hillard, as once in his office he decided on the fall of a coin not to withdraw his personal from the paper. He was quite positive that he would never hear that voice again; but, having thrown his dice, he would let them lie.

Now, at 11 o'clock that same morning two distinguished Italians sat down to breakfast in one of the fashionable hotels. The one nor the other had ever heard of Hillard. They did not even know that such a person existed, and yet serenely unconscious one was casting his life line, as the palmist would say, across Hillard's. The knots and tangles were to come later.

"The coffee in this country is abominable!" growled one.

The waiter smiled covertly behind his hand. These Italians and these Germans! Why, there is only one place in the world where both the aroma and the flavor of coffee are preserved, and it is not, decidedly not, in Italy or Germany. And if his tip exceeded 10 cents he would be vastly surprised. The Italian never wastes on necessities a penny which can be applied to the gaming tables. And these two were talking about Monte Carlo and Ostend.

The younger of the two was a very handsome man, tall, slender and nervous, the Venetian type, his black eyes, keen and roving, suggesting a hasty temper. The mouth, partly hidden under a graceful military mustache, was thin lipped, the mouth of a man who was always master of his vices. From his right cheek bone to the corner of

Helpful Hints on Hair Health

Scalp and Hair Troubles Generally Caused by Carelessness

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe which also produces baldness. Never use a brush or comb belonging to some one else. No matter how cleanly the owner may be, these articles may be infected with microbes, which will infect your scalp. It is far easier to catch hair microbes than it is to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush may well lead to baldness. Never try on anybody else's hat. Many a hatband is a resting place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we believe will completely relieve these troubles. We are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that it will cost you nothing for the trial if it does not produce the results we claim. This remedy is called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We honestly believe it to be the most scientific remedy for scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness, because of the results it has produced in thousands of cases.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is devised to banish dandruff, restore natural color when its loss has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, destroys the germ matter, and brings about a free, healthy circulation of blood, which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to tighten and grow new hair. We want everybody who has any trouble with hair or scalp to know that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existence, and no one should scoff at or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a fair test, with the understanding that they pay us nothing for the remedy if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Rushville only at our store,—The Rexall Store. Lytle's Drug Store.

his mouth ran a scar, very well healed. And the American imagination might readily have pictured villas, maids in durance vile and sword thrusts under the moonlight. But the waiter, who had served his time in a foreign army, knew no foil or rapier could have made such a scar; more probably the saber.

His companion was equally picturesque. With white head and iron gray beard, he wore in his buttonhole a tiny bow of ribbon, the badge of foreign service.

"I'm afraid, Enrico, that you have brought me to America on a useless adventure," said the diplomat.

"She is here in New York, and I shall find her. I must have money—must! I owe you the incredible amount of 100,000 lire. There are millions under my hand, and I cannot touch a penny."

"Do not let your debt to me worry you."

"You are so very good, Giuseppe!"

"Have we not grown up together? Sometimes I think I am partly to blame for your extravagance. But a friend is a friend or he is not."

"But he who borrows from his friend loses him. Observe how I am placed. It is maddening. I have had a dozen opportunities to marry riches. This millstone is eternally round my neck. I have gone through my part of the fortune which was left us independently. She has all of hers, and that is why she is so strong. I am absolutely helpless."

"Poor friend! These American women! They all believe that a man must have no pecuniaries once he has signed the marriage contract. Body of Bacchus! The sacrament does not make a man less human than he was before. But this one is clever. She might be Italian born."

"Her mother was Italian. It is the schooling in this country that has made her so clever. The only thing Italian about her is her hatred. She is my countrywoman there. Without her consent I can touch nothing, and if I divorce her—pouff!—all goes to the state. Sometimes I long to get my two hands round her white throat. One mistake, one little mistake! I am willing to swear that she loved me in the beginning. And I was a fool not to profit by this sentiment. Give me patience, patience. If I say to her, 'So much and you may have your freedom, there is always that cursed will. The crown of Italy will never withdraw its hand. No. With his wife's family on his hands, especially her brother, the king will never waive his rights.'"

"And, remember, we have but ten days."

"We shall not find time heavy. I know a few rich butchers and grocers who call themselves the aristocracy. And some of them play bridge and cards."

The diplomat smiled in anticipation. "I have followed her step by step to the boat at Naples. She is here. She will not be hard to find. She has wealthy friends."

"You say she is beautiful?"

"Yes, and a beautiful woman cannot hide. Think of it! Chateaux and villas and splendid rents, all waiting to be gormalized by the state! Let us get out into the air before I become excited and forget where I am."

The waiter stepped forward with the coats and hats.

CHAPTER III. MME. ANGOT.

THREE nights later, as Hillard and Merrihew were dining together at the club, the steward came into the grill room and swept his placid eye over the groups of diners. Singling out Hillard, he came solemnly down to the corner table and laid a blue letter at the side of Hillard's plate.

"I did not see you when you came in, sir," said the steward, his voice as solemn as his step. "The letter arrived yesterday."

"Thank you, Thomas." With no small difficulty Hillard composed his face and repressed the eagerness in his eyes. She had seen; she had written; the letter lay under his hand! Who said that romance had taken flight? True, the reading of the letter might disillusion him, but always would there be that vision and the voice coming out of the fog. Nonchalantly he turned the letter face downward and went on with the meal.

He sat there staring.

"I did not know that your mail came to the club," said Merrihew.

"It doesn't. Only rarely a letter drifts this way."

"Well, go on and read it. Don't let me keep you from it. Some charmer, I'll wager. Here I pour all my adventures into your ear, and I on my side never so much as get a hint of yours."

Go on, read it."

"Adventures, fiddlesticks! The letter can wait. It is probably a bill."

"A bill in a fashionable envelope like that?"

Hillard only smiled, tipped the cradle and refilled Merrihew's glass with some excellent Romance Conti. "When does Kitty sail?" he asked after a while of silence.

"A week from this Saturday, Feb. 2. What the deuce did you bring up that for? I've been trying to forget it."

"Where do they land?"

"Naples. They open in Rome the first week in March. All the arrangements are complete." After coffee Merrihew pushed back his chair. "I'll reserve a table in the billiard room while you read your letter."

"I'll be with you shortly," gratefully.

So with the inevitable black cigar between his teeth Merrihew sauntered off toward the billiard room, while Hillard picked up his letter and studied it. His fingers trembled slightly as he tore open the envelope. The handwriting, the paper, the modest size, all these pointed to a woman of culture and refinement. But a subtle spirit of irony pervaded it all. She would never have answered his printed inquiry had she not laughed over it, for pinned to the top of the letter was the clipping, the stupid, banal clipping: "Will the lady who sang from 'Mme. Angot' communicate with gentlemen who leaned out of the window?" J. H. Burgomaster club. There was neither a formal beginning nor a formal ending, only four crisp lines. But these implied one thing and distinctly—the writer had no desire for further communication "with gentlemen who leaned out of the window." He read and reread slowly:

I am sorry to learn that my singing disturbed you. There was a reason. At that particular moment I was happy.

That was all. It was enough. She had laughed. She was a lady humorously inclined, not to say mischievous. A comic opera star would have sent her press agent round to see what advertising could be got out of the incident; a prima donna would have appealed to her primo tenor for the same purpose. A gentlewoman surely; moreover, she lived within the radius, the official radius, of the Madison square branch of the postoffice, for such was the postmark. Common sense urged him to dismiss the whole affair and laugh over it as "the lady in the fog" had done. But common sense often goes about with a pedant's strut and is something to avoid on occasions. Here was a harmless pastime to pursue, common sense notwithstanding. The vein of romance in him was strong, and all the commercial blood of his father could not subjugate it. He rang for paper and a messenger and wrote: "Mme. Angot—There is a letter for you in the mail department of this office." This time his initials were not necessary. Once the message was on its way he sought Merrihew, whom he found knocking the balls about in a spiritless manner.

"A hundred to seventy-five, Dan."

"For what?"

"For the mere fun of the game, of course."

"Make it cigars, just to add interest."

has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Courtlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

HIS CONSCIENCE BOTHERED HIM

Pennsylvania Train Robber Gives Himself Up.

DID TRICK SINGLE-HANDED

After Spending What Little He Obtained From the Hold-Up in Fast Living, the Man Who Got Away With the Lincoln Pennies Last August Gets Tired of Evading the Law.

Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—Exclaiming that his conscience had got the better of him and that he was tired of trying to evade the law, a neatly dressed man, who gave his name as Thomas O'Brien, surrendered himself to the police last night, saying he was the highwayman who single-handed held up the Pennsylvania express train in the wild gorge of the Lewiston narrows early on the morning of August 31 last.

The man, after making a confession to Detective Doyle, was locked up pending a hearing. The manner of the man and the unusual method of his surrender has led the detective bureau to believe that he is not a fanatic. He was careful before he gave himself up to the police to find out if the policeman to whom he surrendered—Officer Black—was married. He said that inasmuch as a large reward had been offered for his capture he wanted to give preference to "some man with a family, to whom the money will be of some use."

One hundred dollars in pennies was the result of his escape. Of this sum, he added, all but fifty cents, which was found in his pockets when he was arrested, had been spent in the tenderloin in this city.

WILL GET A SQUARE DEAL

Loeb Gives It Out That Importers Will Get Justice.

New York, Oct. 29.—Collector William Loeb, while not denying that the importers have been subjected to a system of graft by customs officers in which the importers may have taken a willing part, wants it understood that so long as he sits in the collector's chair any importer, big or little, can come directly to him with any complaint of graft from the officers and be sure of justice. "If any merchant of New York is being held up or forced to pay graft, or delayed in his business because he doesn't," said Collector Loeb, "let him be frank with me. I will guarantee personally to take his case up and see that it goes through the custom house with a reasonable dispatch."

RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

Home of Benjamin Longnecker Visited by Night Riders.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 29.—The home of Benjamin Longnecker, one of the wealthiest and most prominent citizens of Mason county, was raided by night riders at an early hour in the morning and the residence completely riddled with bullets. Longnecker, who is connected with one of the banks at Maysville, had refused to pool his tobacco and only recently received several threats that unless he joined the pool this year he would suffer the consequences. Instead of obeying the demands he sold his crop to independent dealers.

On Trial for Libel.

New York, Oct. 29.—The trial of Carlo di Fornaro, the cartoonist, who was arrested last April on a charge of libeling Raphael Reyes Espindola, editor of the Mexican newspaper El Imparcial, has begun. The indictment upon which Fornaro is on trial is due to the fact that he called Espindola a picaroon, a procurer, a man who has done more harm than a brood of rattlesnakes, and a man who forged an edition of a rival newspaper for the purpose of putting it out of business.

Saving on Tariff Duties.

New York, Oct. 29.—The French line wine ships Chicago and Louisiana have arrived here from Havre. Importers will save $3 a case on the champagne in these ships, as the cargo is dutiable under the trade agreement between France and the United States, which will be terminated on Saturday night.

Must Not Spank in New York.

Norwich, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Because he spanked the twelve year old son of David Utter with a shingle, Timothy Tripp, school teacher in the Page Brook district in the town of Greene, was found guilty by a jury and the justice sentenced him to pay a fine of $20 or serve twenty days in the county jail at this place.

Makes a Neat Wad.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Profits which James A. Patten and his friends have been piling up on the bull side of the cotton market are swelled by a further sharp rise in the price. Patten has been right on the cotton market for some weeks, and, according to brokers, his winnings so far are estimated at upward of $2,000,000.

Foreigners Say Zelaya Was Ruining the Country.

HE MONOPOLIZED EVERYTHING

Foreigners Returning From Nicaragua Say That They Are All in Favor of the Revolution, Which Is Steadily Gaining, Although Handicapped by Lack of Ammunition—Some of the Charges Against the President.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 29.—Passengers on the steamship Imperador, which has just arrived from Bluefields, report that the revolutionary government is preserving peace and order on the Atlantic coast. Several victories in the interior are claimed by the revolutionists and the occupation of several towns. The revolutionists, however, are greatly handicapped by a lack of ammunition. A boat fitted out by Emile Bradagin, a Swede in sympathy with the revolutionists, set sail from Bluefields to Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, where it was hoped to get the needed arms and ammunition, as President Cabrera of Guatemala is understood to be favorable to the revolution, but she was compelled to put into Puerto Cortez, Honduras, where she was captured by the Hondurans, who are siding with Zelaya.

While all foreigners and particularly Americans are friendly to the revolution, those who have vested interests in Nicaragua are preserving a strict neutrality, fearing Zelaya's vengeance in case of success. Sentiment on the Atlantic coast is practically unanimous against Zelaya on the ground that he is ruining the country, some of the charges being: "That he owns the entire issue of 25 per cent. government bonds and that through his agents he places them on the market for his own private purpose."

"That the granting of the rubber monopoly dealt a death blow to the rubber industry of the republic."

"That the coconut concession drove hundreds of small exporters completely out of business."

"That the beef butchering concession forced Nicaraguans to consume meat, most of it too tough for a dog to eat, at the neat little price of 40 cents a pound."

"Men who had invested their money in the cattle industry could neither kill their stock for home consumption or exporting." In this connection it is asserted that the price of good beef has been reduced from 40 cents to 25 cents at Bluefields since the revolutionists have been in power.

OHIO EXECUTION

Harry Edward Crooks Suffers Death Penalty for Wife Murder

Columbus, O., Oct. 29.—Harry Edward Crooks, aged forty-seven, a Dayton painter, was electrocuted in the annex at the Ohio state penitentiary shortly after midnight. He protested his innocence to the last. The electrical apparatus was so arranged that the spectators could not see who turned the switch that sent the fatal shock through the condemned man's body. Crooks killed his divorced wife near her home in Dayton in the summer of 1908 after she had refused to return to him.

Students Strangely Attacked.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 29.—Over fifty students of the Georgia Military academy were removed to hospitals suffering from a disease which has so far baffled the physicians. The boys began to be attacked while at drill. Boy after boy fell down on the parade ground and rolled about in great pain. Ambulances were called and the boys hurried to the hospital. Some of the symptoms resemble poisoning, but they are not marked enough to warrant a definite statement that they have been poisoned. Several of the boys are in a serious condition.

Mammoth Docks to Be Built.

Pittsburg, Oct. 29.—Since the visit of President James McCrea of the Pennsylvania railroad to Pittsburg it has come out that mammoth concrete and steel docks to cost more than $4,000,000 have been planned for Cleveland by engineers of the Pennsylvania and work on them will begin early in 1910.

Millionaire Gambler Killed.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 29.—A. M. Talbot, a millionaire gambler, widely known all along the coast, was probably fatally shot by his wife after a violent quarrel over a divorce suit which she intended to file. He followed her to an attorney's office and threatened her, when she pulled a gun and shot him twice in the right breast.

SUES FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. John Jacob Astor Names Three Co-Respondents.

New York, Oct. 29.—It is learned that the suit brought by Mrs. John Jacob Astor is for absolute divorce instead of separation, and that three co-respondents are named in her complaint. Before Mrs. Astor began her suit she learned that her husband had taken their son Vincent from a preparatory school in Rhode Island and that the boy was with his father cruising on the latter's yacht, Colonel Astor and his wife, according to report, had a serious disagreement while they were in Europe last summer and he preceded his wife to this country.

POSTOFFICE IN A NEW BUILDING

Change is Made Between Two Days at Carthage—This Room Has Advantages.

WELL LIGHTED AND HEATED

Postmaster Enos Coffin, assisted by his deputy and the rural route carriers, and by J. F. Tweedy, contractor, with a force of carpenters, moved the postoffice Saturday night to the south room of the new New-som block. The work was completed by midnight and the Sunday morning mail was the first distributed at the new location. The new room is 45x12½, well lighted from front, rear and side, and fitted with steam heat and electric lights. The walls are in brown tints, the ceiling a pale yellow.

BUSTS PLACED IN HENLEY LIBRARY

Likenesses of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington Bought by Citizens of Carthage.

MISS CLARK IS SURPRISED

Busts of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington now grace the Henry Henley public library, says the Carthage Citizen. It will be remembered that at the Lincoln memorial exercises at the Friends' church in February a committee composed of Miss Mattie Clark, W. F. Dana and Supt. Otis Hoskinson, was appointed to solicit funds, which in addition to a collection then taken should be applied to the purchase of busts of these immortal Americans for the Public library. The pieces, which are plaster-paris, colored to imitate bronze, arrived Monday and were unpacked and placed in the library by the gentlemen of the committee. Miss Clark did not know of the presence of the busts in the building until she opened the doors Tuesday afternoon. Although inexpensive, the reproductions are excellent, and their influence for good will be far reaching.

FINAL RUSH TO PAY FALL TAXES

County Treasurer Moor and His Deputy Are Working Overtime to Handle Money.

OFFICE NOT OPEN AT NIGHT

The county treasurer's office is a busy place now. There has been more going on in the treasurer's office this week than in all the other offices together. County treasurer Moor says that the payments of fall taxes have been very heavy, and that he and his deputy, Mrs. Caldwell, have been worked hard all week. It will be impossible for the office to be kept open at night any as it is necessary to check up at night. Mr. Moor says that they have been working until ten and eleven o'clock setting up every night this week. Monday is the last day for paying taxes, and it is thought the rush tomorrow and Monday will keep the attaches of the office on the jump all the time.

Rev. John L. Hill of Connersville will preach at the Main Street Christian church both morning and evening. He is a speaker of power and one of the noted preachers of the Christian church. For the past five years he has been pastor of the Central church, Cincinnati. He is also an author of some note, having written several works and the Rushville people should give him a large hearing.

Dear Sirs:

I took my Blue Suit down to a Tacoma Tailor to get it pressed and when I went to get it he said. "May I ask who made this suit." I informed him that I did not know who made it but that I bought it back east. He then said, "It wasn't ready-made was it?" I replied that it certainly was and he again said "It's a mighty nifty suit for a ready-made." Now believe me O.P.C.H. I agree with him.

Your Friend.

The special car on the I. & C. reached Indianapolis on schedule time and a city car was waiting for them to take them to the colosseum for the Shriners' circus. After the show was over the special city car took them back to Indianapolis and the Rushville crowd reached here at 12:10.
